Mac,

Just make sure we are on the same page: you have agreed that tomorrow Jan 17th, the first business day after the holiday weekend, you will send out the wire of $110,000 first thing tomorrow morning. Please confirm.

Over the last several years, I have been very generous and kind to you, which you repeatedly agreed was the case.

Since you borrowed the $100,000 in 2012, the loan was due in May 2013, and it has been over-due for more than 3 years. I believe that you are an honorable man and that you will honor your commitment to repay me. I hope that you will pay back the first $110,000 tomorrow Jan 17th, as you promised to me at your house, so you do not force us to take legal action to recover the full amount due plus interest.

Please confirm. Thank you.

Ben Fang

I am trying to arrange your wire. I did indicate to you that my attorney said the week of January 15th. Given that the 15th is Sunday the transaction would be processed on the next business day. I am trying to get it done so you don't need to harass me.

Emanuel kept making false promises and kept lying that US Federal government was holding the fund and requires attorney to release, But he has all the sales proceeds to himself in his M&T Bank account all the time. See attached bank statements. He defrauded secure note holder so he could move to hide the money in Antigua.

Dear Mac,

Following my visit to your house on Jan 1 of 2017, you said the property sale has been closed and you promised me to payback the $110,000 in the first installment on Jan 13 of 2017 (today). This payback is in relation to the $100,000 loan you borrowed from us in Nov of 2012, and has become over-due since May of 2013.

We will arrive at your house at 10:30AM today, and then you and I go to the bank together to do the wire transfer of the payback.

Please let me know your bank name and address, so we could also meet at the bank. If I do not hear back from you, we will meet you at your house.

Best regards,
Ben

After repeated attempts to call/text/email Emanuel who ignored me from July to Dec, I went to his house to ask him when he would pay me back. He admitted for the first time that property sale was closed, but then lied that IRS was holding the fund. He then cheated and lied he would pay me back on Jan 13, he failed and then changed to Jan 17, and he failed again. After that he disappeared and not responding. The Manhattan court issued judgement ordering him to payback on May 10, 2019.

Ben, I left my phone on the train 3 days ago and still trying to get it back. However, as I said in my last email on May 11th, as soon as the sale is final you will receive your money. The buyer happens to be a dentist and requires many approvals to operate from that bundling he will not close until all the town approvals are in place. He is also getting a commercial loan which takes a considerable amount of time. I am anxious to get this done and over with especially to get you your money. I expect to get a closing date any day now.

Mac
